Engineering Smart Solutions for Cooling Tower Documentation

The Problem with Paper Documentation

In the cooling tower industry, critical information gets buried in paper files or lost in emails. Finding the right specifications or support contact often means searching through stacks of manuals or making multiple phone calls. We've engineered a better solution.

CTR's Answer: SmrtStack™ Technology

We've embedded smart identification directly into our fiberglass fan stacks. No special apps. No batteries. No complicated systems. Just tap your phone against any panel to access the information you need.

Direct Access to Your Local Expert

Our SmrtStack™ system connects you straight to your certified installer:

- Scan any panel to get your installer's direct contact information
- Your installer can access your exact fan stack specifications
- Find your complete installation history, including modifications
- One point of contact who knows your equipment

Field-Ready Documentation

✓ Measurements On Demand

Tap your phone on any panel to get fan stack dimensions, cut circles, and tolerances. No more climbing up and down with a tape measure.

✓ Complete Component Records

Each panel stores its manufacturing data, quality certificates, and technical drawings in its digital ID.

✓ Permanent Digital Storage

We use industrial-grade NFC chips that work without batteries and last as long as your cooling tower.

CTR Innovation in Action

We're the only fan stack manufacturer offering:

- Smart ID technology built into fan stack components
- No battery, no app required
- Direct certified installer connections
- Permanent digital documentation
- Integrated technical support

Your Secure Information Hub

Set up your My SmrtStack account to access:

- Component specifications
- Installation guides
- Quality certificates
- Support contacts
